Bread Trust Puts an End to Grocer Oelrich's Generosity.

His Sale of One-Day-Old Bread at Cost Stopped.

200 Bakers Selling 18-Ounce Loaves at Three Cents.

Over two hundred bakers, whose establishments have a capacity of from three to ten barrels of flour a day, are now baking eighteen ounce loaves, which are being wholesaled at three cents each. The profit on these sales, the bakers declare, is sufficient to warrant them in keeping the price at that figure as long as the cost of flour remains less than $4 a barrel.

And still the Bread Trust contends that to sell bread at wholesale for less than 4 cents a loaf means ruin. In the greed for enormous profits the Trust has stooped to many discreditable acts, the latest instance of which has just come to the notice of "The Evening World."

Some days ago Grocer Henry Oelrich, whose place of business is at Ninth avenue and Eighteenth street, Brooklyn, decided to do what he could to aid some of his poorer customers by furnishing them with bread at the lowest possible price. He went to a Trust baker and made arrangements to have every morning a big load of one-day-old bread at 2-1/2 cents a loaf. This he sold to those who wanted it at the price he paid for it giving away his time and labor in which he wrapped the loaves.

For nearly a week the people flocked to Mr. Oelrich's store for the cheap bread. The Trust baker, who was a driver for a Trust concern of the district, and when the grocer came for his next day's supply, he was informed that he could get no more bread than to retail at cost price, poor or no poor.

It is not difficult, with such an explanation before one, to understand the feeling which prompts the Wholesale Bakers' Association to keep up its price.

MRS. PARAN STEVENS.

Again Summoned to Court to Pay a Servant $7.20 Wages.

Mrs. Paran Stevens, the well-known society leader, who resides at Fifty-seventh street and Fifth avenue, was served with a summons this morning to appear in the Yorkville Court and show cause why she should not pay Marie Tracey $7.20, claimed to be due to Marie for services as a domestic in Mrs. Stevens's house.

The servant girl says she was in Mrs. Stevens's employment for over a year.

About two weeks ago, she alleges, Mrs. Stevens used such insulting language to her that to retain her services she was obliged to give up her position. She asked Mrs. Stevens for the balance due on her wages, and Mrs. Stevens refused to pay her.

After a short visit to friends in Philadelphia, Marie Tracey says, she returned to this city and again demanded her money of Mrs. Stevens, and again was refused.

Yesterday she told her story to Justice McKean in the Yorkville Court. He issued a summons for Mrs. Stevens's appearance in court tomorrow morning.

After the summons was issued Marie asserts, Mrs. Stevens offered to pay $25 in settlement of her claim, but she insisted on the full amount of $7.20, which Mrs. Stevens was unwilling to give.

Saw His Mother Faint.

William A. Blank Jr., who was a stenographer in District Attorney De Lancey Nicolai's office, and who confessed that he was a member of a gang that committed a number of burglaries on the east side, is in the Essex House prison.

He is visited almost daily by his parents. When Mrs. Blank had her son behind with difficulty was taken home. The father says he believes his son is in the hands of a gang, and he is waiting to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Would Rather Die Than Tell.

Evyns Bell prefers death to telling the Essex House Committee what she knows about discreditable houses. She left this city on that account last summer, she ventured back last week and was promptly served with a subpoena. Last Saturday night she swallowed a dose of cyanide and cut her throat. She may recover.

Medium Minnie Williams Here Again.

"Mrs. Minnie" Williams, the medium whose tricks were exposed in Paris, returned to New York on Sunday. Controversy has arisen among former associates as to whether she shall be received among them.

LUCK IN THE WRONG BAG.

Awkward Mistake of a Paymaster That Turned Out Quite a Blessing.

I am a clerk in the service of a firm of colliery and quarry owners at Lington, and every Saturday morning I go out to Westbury, a village some thirty miles off among the moors, to pay the quarrymen their wages.

It's an awkward sort of journey. I have to start by the first train in the morning, which leaves Lington at 6, change at Drak, our junction with the main line, leave the main line again at Thurley, some ten miles further south, and do the rest of the distance in the break van of a mineral train.

The money—nearly a hundred pounds, mostly of silver—I always carry in a little black leather bag, one of those bags you see by scores every day, which may contain anything from a packet of sandwiches and a clean collar to a dynamite bomb, and it's my habit, when in the train to put my bag on the rack facing me.

One Saturday in November, 1933, after being out with Tilly to a party, which broke up so late that I had only just time to change my clothes and get a sort of apology for a breakfast before catching my train, I slept all the way from Lington to Drak, and at Drak I stumbled, only

This is a good time to think about the poor children. If you are prosperous and have reason to feel thankful, just give a thought to the 50,000 poor children in New York, Brooklyn and Jersey City, whose homes are filled with the gloom of poverty, and who have nothing at all to be thankful for unless it be that they are alive, which is a doubtful sort of cause for gratitude. These children will be just as cheerless on Christmas Day as they are now, unless you are kind enough to help them. "The Evening World's" Christmas-Tree Fund has for its object the making of all poor children happy at Christmas. If you wish to share in the good work send a contribution to "Cashier of World," Pulitzer Building, New York City.

Letters to Santa Claus.

Dear Santa Claus: Will you please send six tickets for us, as we have no money to spare for our little ones for Christmas. They are very fond of playing with them.

MRS. R. S. Orchard street.

Dear Old Santa Claus: I am a poor little girl and have two sisters and one brother, and we are very poor. I have no paper, but I want to have a letter, and my mother is a hard-working woman and takes in washing and whatever she can get to do to support us. Dear Old Santa Claus, I would like to have some presents, and I will tell you what I want. I want a doll and a book, and a box of handkerchiefs and a pair of shoes. Please give me my letter, and please give my brother a bicycle, a box of handkerchiefs and a doll. Please don't forget us, as we are very poor. Good-bye, Mr. Santa Claus. Please don't forget me. Mrs. A. N. Smith, 123 West 10th street, New York City.

Dear Old Santa Claus, I would like to have some presents, and I will tell you what I want. I want a doll and a book, and a box of handkerchiefs and a pair of shoes. Please give me my letter, and please give my brother a bicycle, a box of handkerchiefs and a doll. Please don't forget us, as we are very poor. Good-bye, Mr. Santa Claus. Please don't forget me. Mrs. A. N. Smith, 123 West 10th street, New York City.

Dear Santa Claus: I am a poor little boy, and I have two sisters and one brother, and we are very poor. I have no paper, but I want to have a letter, and my mother is a hard-working woman and takes in washing and whatever she can get to do to support us.
